Kenneth Karmiole is an antiquarian bookseller with an office in Santa Monica, in business since 1976. He has a BA in History (American Studies) from UC Santa Barbara and an MLS degree from UCLA. He has always been a generalist in the trade, but emphasizes early printed books, before 1700, although he'll look at anything that may be interesting and saleable! His talk, "Shakespeare in Virginia," will focus on a special book that he purchased at the Boston Antiquarian Book Fair in 2015.
