Survivor Testimony: Selene Bruk

"See It Through My Eyes" delves into the story of the survivor Selene Bruk.

As seen on the memorial stone, not only the survivor but those who speak for them should also carry on their memories so history will not be repeated.

Eyes are the window of two different views of the Holocaust: memories and ignorance. The heartbeat means memories kept alive; if not, they will end like the EKG.

By using symbolic images, this film expresses the destruction of the lives of the unheard and the unseen, reminding us not to forget, and not to be ignorant.
