Reminder: Student Conduct At Student Events

The food provided at events (speakers, panels, meetings, etc.) are for those actually attending the event. Please do NOT enter an event location, take food, then leave. This is extremely rude and disrespectful, not only to those putting on the event but also to the speakers and panelists. Such conduct reflects poorly on our law school and all of its students, even though only a few engage in this unacceptable behavior. It also unnecessarily raises the costs of events and reduces the number of overall events that can be sponsored by our student organizations.

In the future, if you take food at an event, you are expected to remain until the event's conclusion and give the speakers/panelists your undivided attention (no cell phone or lap top use). Thank you in advance for your compliance.

Register with the California State Bar as a Law Student

First year law students are encouraged to register with the State Bar of California aftercommencing their legal education. The link to register is here. You ARE NOT required to take the First Year Law Students Examination. It is important to register with the state bar because it is the first step in your application process to sit for the California Bar Examination. It is required that you register with the California State Bar to become a “certified law student.” A certified law student is able to make certain court appearances under the supervision of a licensed supervising attorney. Certification is helpful when looking for externship and employment opportunities with the district attorney’s office, the public defender’s office, and other government agencies. Instructions on registration are included on the link provided above.

Please note that if you are planning on sitting for another jurisdiction’s bar examination, you must check with that jurisdiction regarding any obligations that you may have to register with that jurisdiction’s licensing authority.
