The Holocaust Art and Writing Contest was launched in 1999 as a partnership between the Rodgers Center for Holocaust Education at Chapman University and The "1939" Club, now The 1939 Society, an Organization of Holocaust Survivors, Descendants, and Friends.

Each year, the contest has grown, now including 255 public, private, and parochial schools across the nation and several countries. This growth would not have been possible without the extraordinary support of the Samueli Foundation. Thanks to the generosity of Dana and Yossie Hollander, we are able to offer first-place students and their teachers an expense-paid study trip to visit the Los Angeles Museum of the Holocaust, the Museum of Tolerance, and other sites in Los Angeles.

A special word of appreciation must go to Louis Weber and Publications International for their years of extraordinary support and the nearly 7,500 copies of The Holocaust Chronicle: A History in Words and Pictures they have donated. Thanks to Publications International, each student representative receives a book which they can have signed by Holocaust survivors and other guests attending the reception following the awards ceremony. With these signatures, each book becomes a unique testimony to the memories created on this very special day in which witnesses to the Holocaust meet their witnesses to the future.

We extend our appreciation to Sodexo for their generous contribution to the reception following the Awards Ceremony.

We are grateful to Chapman University Enrollment Services for donating Chapman University t-shirts to contest finalists.

Chapman University institutional items have been generously donated by Strategic Marketing and Communications. Today's students explore passionately in order to keep the stories alive and bring awareness to all survivors. Congratulations.

Dear Friends,

It gives me great pleasure to offer my appreciation to the Rodgers Center for Holocaust Education, the 1939 Society, and Chapman University for coordinating the Holocaust Art and Writing Contest.

Through the years, your hard work and dedication has created a unique opportunity for middle and high school students to interact and study the Holocaust by unique & creative means. You have given the thousands of students who participate in this competition the gift of narrative, new perspective and a strong platform to discuss themes central to both the Holocaust and ethical decision making in our world today. Thank you for your commitment to continually provide our students in Southern California with the opportunity to simultaneously engage with history and to see history come to life. I am confident that the opportunities you provide for students to share their creative work with Holocaust survivors is not one that anyone will forget.

To the students who participated in this year's competition – congratulations, but also, thank you. Thank you for sharing a piece of yourself and diving deep into parts of our history that others would rather choose to ignore. This is a proud moment for everyone involved.

Congratulations, and I look forward to your continued success and leadership.

Sincerely,

As the Executive Director of Los Angeles Museum of the Holocaust and the grandchild of Holocaust survivors, it is an honor to welcome you to the Rodgers Center for Holocaust Education's 19th Annual Holocaust Art & Writing Contest Awards Ceremony. Los Angeles Museum of the Holocaust was founded by Holocaust survivors who believed it was critical to share their personal experiences in order to teach future generations about this painful but important chapter in our history. This contest teaches students about the Holocaust while providing them with a unique opportunity to engage with Holocaust survivors' testimony and become witnesses to their experience.

I commend Marilyn Harran and Chapman University for engaging such a large, diverse group of students from all over the world in this innovative and meaningful program. Thank you for bringing the community together to reflect and learn from the past and provide the space for us to discuss the importance of acceptance, open-mindedness and social justice. Through this opportunity students can strive to create a more dignified and humane world for future generations.

I'd like to congratulate all of the participants for your hard work and extraordinary creative projects. I look to the future with hope and pride knowing that you will serve as messengers of memory.

With gratitude,

Beth Kean
Executive Director

The Organizers
of the 19th Annual Holocaust Art and Writing Contest & Contest Participants

Dear Organizers and Participants,

Begun in 2016, Forum for Dialogue's cooperation with the Rodgers Center for Holocaust Education at the Chapman University is a source of great pride to our team of people dedicated to teaching about the Holocaust and its aftermath. In 2018 three Polish Schools of Dialogue, empowered by the possibility of sharing their efforts with an esteemed jury of experts, and with their peers equally invested in art as means of preserving memory, joined the competition.

Forum remains unspeakably grateful to Professor Marilyn Harran, without whom Polish participants would not have had an opportunity to join this prestigious and important competition. We continue to be in awe of her vision for the development of the Annual Holocaust Art and Writing Contest.

The projects prepared by the students from Mińsk Mazowiecki, Zamość and Wieluń engaged with the tragic history in a way that combines historical accuracy and artistic merit. They show the importance of survivors' testimonies as sources of inspiration and warning for the future. Though separated by many decades and a vastly different life experience, the students convey the same language of the survivors through their artwork submitted to the competition. Now more than ever, witness testimonies cannot be forgotten.

As an organization dedicated to empowering students involved in projects preserving and teaching about the history of Jews, Forum for Dialogue recognizes and appreciates the importance of a competition that awards students for their dedication to history and memory. We congratulate all the participants for their incredible work, and thank the organizers once again for heading such a worthy endeavor.

Sincerely,

Andrzej Folwarczny
President
